LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. To the Editors of the Appeal: A correspondent of the Banner of Light,

A correspondent of the Banner of Light, Boston, sums up the cause of the great political revolution in Ohio as follows: "Our election is over, and the result has proven that we Spiritualists hold the balance of power and can effectually rebuke any party that legislates against us, as the Republican party did in the passage of the 'Russell bill,' now a law."

"I am satisfied from all reports and correspondence that 15,000 of the 20,000 Spiritualist Republican voters voted the Democratic ticket, while quite a number voted with the Prohibitionists; enough, really, to have elected the whole Republican ticket by from 20,000 to 25,000, if we had voted with them 000 to 25,000, if we had voted with then as usual." If this be true, it behooves poli as usual. If this be true, it belooves pon-ticians to be careful how they tread upon the tender corns of Spiritualists in future. Suppose they should invoke the aid of the spirits to help redress their grievances? There is no knowing what they might do.

motion made by the defendant to quash the indictment.

The State took the ground that the recent act authorizing pool-selling was unconstitutional, for the reason that it attempted to legislate in favor of a certain class. The section alluded to allows none to engage in pool-selling except bloodhorse, trotting or turf associations. The defense argues that this is not class legislation, that any body of citizens who may choose to do so have the right to form a blood-horse or turf association, and that they may then engage in pool-selling; that the law is not made an favor of any one association, but for the benefit of all those who may choose to take advantage Judge Greer took the matter under advisement, but is understood will overrule the motion to quash, in order to bring up

A rather unusual secure for times of teace and the secure and the s the Appeal of Sunday, the 4th instant:

A rather unusual scene for times of peace and in a land of milk and honey was enacted about 10 o'clock last night at No. 63 Desoto street, occupied as a saloon by Henry Wobb, colored. At that hour, while a number of darkies were sitting in a back room of the saloon, some of them at a table playing cards for drinks, the house brightly lighted, some eight or ten deputy-sheriffs dashed in pell-mell and called "Hait! hait!" making so much noise that a number of the darkies were frightened nearly out of their wits, and attempted to get out of the house. Several pistols were at once drawn by the deputy-sheriffs and four or five shots fired, one of the bullets, it is stated, penetrating a house in the vicinity occupied by a colored woman named Hannah Joiner. Three policemen, who were making their rounds at a of those from whom he obtained his information he declined to do so. He hoped, he said, that the gentlemen would not insist upon a reply to their question, as he could not answer it.

The foreman remarked that this was more than an ordinary case, and that reasons which might influence one under other circumstances should not be allowed in this case. He added that the article was a direct attack upon the sheriff and his direct attack upon the sheriff and his deputies, as well as upon the judge of the Criminal Court, and that it was due to them and to the community that the mat-ter should be thoroughly sifted. If the deputy sheriffs had exceeded their authority, they should be indicted.

The reporter replied that no indictments could be based upon his knowledge, which was purely from hearsay, and that while he felt absolutely certain that the article, as a whole. WAS CORRECT ret he could not take oath to it. The oreman held that in that case it was the some clew by which they, too, might be satisfied of the truth of the article.

HIS POSITION vas a very simple one, and his duty toplain to admit of argument.

It was finally concluded to refer the matter to the Court and the reporter accordingly accompanied the foreman to the Criminal Court-room. The latter stated the case plainly to Judge Greer, who ex-pressed his regret that it had assumed such a shape, and hoped that the grand jury could devise some other means of getting at the desired facts. The Court added that if the jury should insist upon having an answer to their question, it would be his unavoidable duty, in the event of the reporter's refusal, to send him to jail, though he should do so with the utmost reluctance. The reporter answered that he was firm in his conviction that his surse was right and from it by any power, however dreadful. This ended the interview, and the reporter again repaired to the grand jury-room, where a vote was taken, and it was decided that the question must be answered, with the alternative of the jail. The reporter heard this awful sentence absolutely unmoved, and repeated his determination to remain silent. After a good deal of the same kind of debate and fruitless pumping, one of the jurymen suggested that the reporter see the parties who had given the information, state the case plainly to them and tell them he would be sent to jail unsupplied to the grand jury-room, where a vote was taken, and it was decided that the shore Foundry.—En. This proposition was also rejected by the reporter, who expressed himself as having no objection, however, to ascertain if they were perfectly willing to be known, and had always been willing, and that if he found them in this frame of mind he would give their names next Tuesday morning, with the distinct understanding that he was not to bring any influence to bear upon them. This was at once agreed to.
